The Prevent Agenda

Whole School context

Teaching and learning in areas that contribute to the Prevent agenda needs to take place within a context of a whole school approach that includes an ethos, environment, relationships and policies that enable the safeguarding of the whole school community. Schools' development of their shared values, meeting the 'British Values' agenda, is integrally linked to Prevent. Safeguarding training and policies will include Prevent, and all staff must know and follow policies and procedures when they have concerns about any individual children in relation to this.

Work with children and young people that supports this agenda can be delivered throughout the curriculum, in structured lessons and beyond (for example through assemblies, educational visits, school and class council). Positive and healthy relationships between staff and children / young people, between the school and home and the community, and between children and young people themselves are an essential part of safeguarding in this context.

As part of this broader context, both the content of PSHE and the environment and approaches used to deliver it 'Schools can build pupils' resilience to radicalisation by providing a safe environment for debating controversial issues and helping them to understand how they can influence and participate in decision making.'
